THE ROWELL FAMILY PAPERS

The Rowell Family Collection falls into two main parts. One documents the life of a young New Hampshire couple who participated in the missionary movement of the nineteenth century, and the other the lives of their children as time and distance stretched family ties and re-formed kinship networks.

George Berkeley Rowell (1815-1884) was the son of the Reverend Joseph Rowell and Hannah Chase Rowell of Cornish, New Hampshire. He was educated at Amherst College (1837) and Andover Theological Seminary (1841) and ordained as a Congregational minister on October 22, 1841. On April 7, 1842, one month before sailing with the Tenth Company of Missionaries to the Sandwich Islands (Hawaii), he married Malvina Jerusha Chapin (1816-1901) of Newport, New Hampshire, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke Seminary (1841).

The Rowells arrived in Honolulu in September of 1842, two weeks before the death of his sister, Martha Laurens Rowell Locke. Edwin and Martha Locke, members of the Eighth Company, had gone to Hawaii in 1836. Mr. Locke was attached to the Company as a teacher, and founded a manual labor school in Waialua. While awaiting transportation home with his three children, Edwin Locke also died after a brief illness. Much of the GBR correspondence in the 1840's concerns the Lockes' death and the future of their three children. Lucy Maria (1838-1871) and Martha Laurens (1840-1889) were adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Asa Bowen Smith, missionaries who replaced the Lockes at the Waialua station from 1843-1845, and later took charge of the children when they all returned to America in 1845. The Bowens also figured prominently in the GBR correspondence. The youngest Locke daughter, Mary Sabin, was adopted by her uncle Dr. Samuel Newell Rowell of Malta, New York.

The Rowells were first stationed at Waioli, where two of their children, Malvina Chapin (1843-1870) and William Edwards (1845-1916), were born. In 1846 they were sent to Waimea, on Kauai. In addition to his pastoral work at two neighboring stations, Rowell built the great stone church which is still standing. There five other children were added to the family: Clara Maria (1847-1916), Marion Eliza (1848-1912), George Addison (1850-1904), Ellen Louisa (1852-1924), and Mary Adelaide (1853-1932). In 1865 Rowell's "connection with the A.B.C.F.M. ceased." From 1864 until Rowell's death in 1884 the family lived in Koloa, where he "led a brotherhood of Hawaiian churches independent of the Hawaiian Board."* After Rowell's death his wife moved to Southern California, near her daughter, Marion Eliza Gay.

Four of the Rowell children were sent to schools in Hawaii and to the United States for their education, and letters to them from family and friends in Hawaii form the second major portion of the collection. Malvina was sent to Chicago to study and died there. William Edwards first went off when he was when he was eight or nine years old. The collection includes letters to him from his family and from his friends George and Sanford Dole, children of missionaries of the Ninth Company. (Sanford Dole married Clara Maria Rowell, one of the sisters who remained in Hawaii.) Later George Addison followed his brother to America, completed his education at Yale, and remained to practice medicine. He married his first cousin, Frances Eliza Rowell, a daughter of Samuel Newell and Eliza Benham Rowell, and the adoptive sister of Mary Sabin (Locke) Rowell. Typescript copies of letters from Frances to another sister, Ella Rowell Higgins, cover a six year period, from 1880-1886. Mary Adelaide was sent to Mt. Holyoke when she was seventeen, and a series of forty-four letters from her sister Clara report the news and gossip from home from September 23, 1870 to May 3, 1875. The two main parts of the collection, along with the secondary and miscellaneous genealogical material collected by a descendant, Dorothy C. Rowell, offer insights into one variant of American family life in the nineteenth century.

ROWELL FAMILY COLLECTION

I. Generation of George Berkeley Rowell (1815-1884) and Malvina Jerusha Chapin Rowell (1816-1901).

This series includes 125 ALS from various people to GBR or GBR and MJCR principally covering the years when the Rowells, members of the Tenth Company of missionaries, dispatched by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (ABCFM), left for the Sandwich Islands (Hawaii) and the first decade of their lives on the Islands. The letters are mostly from family and fellow missionaries.

Typed copies of many of these manuscript letters were made under the direction of Dorothy C. Rowell, a granddaughter. For each such letter the folder and the document number on the bottom right of the transcript are indicated in parentheses after the entry.

Folder I-N contains brief biographies of those correspondents of GBR who were fellow missionaries in the Sandwich Islands, photocopied from Missionary Album: Portraits and Biographical Sketches of the American Protestant Missionaries to the Hawaiian Islands (Honolulu, 1969). An asterisk (*) follows those names in the listing below.
