VIII. Analysis: The collection is subdivided into two categories: 1) Abraham Heaton, 2) John Heaton, Jr. and consists of correspondence, bills, receipts, orders, cancelled checks, and financial ledgers. Within each category the material is arranged according to subject headings and alphabetically and/or chronologically within each heading. The A. Heaton papers have index slips which are arranged alphabetically and follow the original material. The J. Heaton papers have a selective index by author per folder, see p.9. Content guide -- p.3.
see p.5 of Content guide for addition made in June 1980
p.8a for addition made in July 1980
The Heaton cousins, Abraham and John were shipping merchants. Both had stores located on Long Wharf and their business depended upon shipping which served both as a means of transporting goods and as a customer, since they outfitted ships with supplies. Abraham's store was destroyed in the Long Wharf fire of 1820 (Dana vol. 132, p. 20).

Abraham Heaton married Phebe Maria Parmalee (May 1777--March 12, 1874) and had one daughter, Maria, who married Dr. John Robertson. Her son, A. Heaton Robertson (Sep. 25, 1850--Aug. 5, 1924), was a prominent lawyer and judge. Abraham Heaton owned the ship "Pacific" which was captained by Ichabod Smith (Dana vol. 129, p. 9) and a house on the west corner of Temple and Crown St.

John Heaton Jr. married Elizabeth Goodyear (Dec. 27, 1790--Nov. 2, 1881) and had two sons, Edward (1811--1894), a successful businessman and philanthropist, and Augustus (1815-1850), whose son, Augustus George Heaton (1844--), was a painter and writer (see Dictionary of Am. Biography). John Heaton was engaged in trade with the West Indies and South America and lost his fortune during raids on American trade in the 19th century. He was associated with Captain Richard Bangs.
